ASSOCIATION OF CERTIFIED CHARTERED ACCOUNTANTS (ACCA)

Background

ACCA has a global reputation for producing professionally qualified accountants of the highest caliber. It offers certification for those who wish to become accountants, auditors and financial managers. At AIBF you will develop a range of skills and knowledge which will enable you to work in any aspect of finance, creating a world of opportunities for your future. The course is divided into three parts:

Fundamentals Level

It consists of two modules:

1. The Knowledge module has three subjects that introduce students to the core areas of financial and management accounting. It provides the platform from which other technical accountancy areas are studied in greater detail in the Skills module.

2. The Skills module contains six subjects which comprehensively cover the main technical areas that accountants, regardless of their future career aspirations, are expected to master. These comprise law, performance management, taxation, financial reporting, auditing, and financial management.

Professional Level

The focus at this level is to build upon the technical skills already acquired and explore more advanced professional skills, techniques, and values that are required and used by the expert accountant in an advisory or consultancy role at senior level.

It consists of two modules:

1. The Essentials module has three papers that are compulsory.

2. The Options module contains four papers which are directly underpinned and supported by their equivalent within the Skills module. Students select two out of four according to their chosen or anticipated field of work.

Oxford Brookes University of U.K., founded in 1865 has an international reputation for quality. It awards B.Sc. in Applied Accounting degree to ACCA students on satisfying certain conditions. The ACCA student is awarded this degree while studying ACCA in his/her own country.
